"Taking part in the Mountain West Trails Conference was a valuable experience for our team and our brand. The connections we were able to develop during the conference and knowledge we were able to garner from speakers on topics ranging from sustainable trail management solutions to innovative trail design and where outdoor trail recreation is headed were especially insightful. The event served as a meeting place for thought leaders, trail crews, brands and even state representatives from the four corner states and beyond to come together and better understand one another and develop plans to serve their communities more effectively and shape the future of outdoor recreation!"

-J.M. Fabrizi, President, Coalatree
